

“Network commands”

Ping Command

The ping command is one of the most often used networking utilities for detecting devices on a network and for troubleshooting network problems.

ipconfig Command

Another indispensable and frequently used utility that is used for finding network information about your local machine like IP addresses, DNS addresses etc

Hostname Command

displays the host name of your machine.

getmac Command

shows the MAC address of your network interface.

arp Command

This is used for showing the address resolution cache. This command must be used with a command line switch arp -a is the most common.

NSlookup

Used for checking DNS record entries.

Nbtstat

Diagnostic tool for troubleshooting netBIOS problems.

Net Command

Used for managing users,service,shares etc

Netstat Command

Used for displaying information about tcp and udp connections and ports

TaskKill Command

View a list of running tasks using the tasklist command and kill them by name or processor ID using the taskKill command

